IN RE: Van H. & Ruth Wells )
Ward 080, Block 019, Parcel 00005 ) Shelby County

Tax Year 2005 )

INITIAL DECISION AND ORDER

Statement of the Case

The subject property is presently valued as follows:

LAND VALUE	IMPROVEMENT VALUE	TOTAL VALUE	ASSESSMENT
$604,900	$110,100	$715,000	$178,750

An appeal has been filed on behalf of the property owner with the State Board of Equalization. The undersigned administrative judge conducted a hearing in this matter on February 15, 2006 in Memphis, Tennessee. In attendance at the hearing were Mr. and Mrs. Wells, the appellants, and Shelby County Property Assessor's representative Ron Palmer.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Subject property consists of a 1.787 acre tract improved with a single family residence located at 6388 Cottingham Place in Memphis, Tennessee.

The taxpayers contended that subject property should be valued at $405,900 as it was prior to the 2005 countywide reappraisal program. In support of this position, the taxpayers argued that subject property has not been improved since the last reappraisal program in 2001. In addition, the taxpayers asserted that subject property experiences a loss in value due to poor drainage resulting in standing water. Moreover, the taxpayers introduced numerous sales and appraisals of other homes they claimed support a reduction in value. Finally, the taxpayers seemingly suggested that the highest and best use of subject property might be to raze the dwelling and construct a more valuable home.

The assessor contended that subject property should be valued at $715,000. In support of this position, five comparable sales were introduced into evidence. In addition, Mr. Palmer argued that although “tear-downs” have occurred in nearby developments, that does not constitute the highest and best use of subject property. Finally, Mr. Palmer claimed that any diminution in value has been accounted for by appraising subject property at a much lower value than comparable sales arguably support.

The basis of valuation as stated in Tennessee Code Annotated Section 67-5-601(a) is that "[t]he value of all property shall be ascertained from the evidence of its sound, intrinsic and immediate value, for purposes of sale between a willing seller and a willing buyer without consideration of speculative values . . ."

After having reviewed all the evidence in the case, the administrative judge finds that the subject property should be valued at $715,000 based upon the presumption of correctness attaching to the decision of the Shelby County Board of Equalization.

Since the taxpayer is appealing from the determination of the Shelby County Board of Equalization, the burden of proof is on the taxpayer. See State Board of Equalization Rule 0600-1-.11(1) and Big Fork Mining Company v. Tennessee Water Quality Control Board, 620 S.W.2d 515 (Tenn. App. 1981).

The administrative judge finds that the taxpayer's equalization argument must be rejected. The administrative judge finds that the April 10, 1984, decision of the State Board of Equalization in Laurel Hills Apartments, et al. (Davidson County, Tax Years 1981 and 1982), holds that "as a matter of law property in Tennessee is required to be valued and equalized according to the 'Market Value Theory'." As stated by the Board, the Market Value Theory requires that property "be appraised annually at full market value and equalized by application of the appropriate appraisal ratio . . ." Id. at 1.

The Assessment Appeals Commission elaborated upon the concept of equalization in Franklin D. & Mildred J. Herndon (Montgomery County, Tax Years 1989 and 1990) (June 24, 1991), when it rejected the taxpayer's equalization argument reasoning in pertinent part as follows:

In contending the entire property should be appraised at no more than $60,000 for 1989 and 1990, the taxpayer is attempting to compare his appraisal with others. There are two flaws in this approach. First, while the taxpayer is certainly entitled to be appraised at no greater percentage of value than other taxpayers in Montgomery County on the basis of equalization, the assessor's proof establishes that this property is not appraised at any higher percentage of value than the level prevailing in Montgomery County for 1989 and 1990. That the taxpayer can find other properties which are more underappraised than average does not entitle him to similar treatment. Secondly, as was the case before the administrative judge, the taxpayer has produced an impressive number of "comparables" but has not adequately indicated how the properties compare to his own in all relevant respects. . . .

Final Decision and Order at 2. See also Earl and Edith LaFollette, (Sevier County, Tax Years 1989 and 1990) (June 26, 1991), wherein the Commission rejected the taxpayer's equalization argument reasoning that "[t]he evidence of other tax-appraised values might be relevant if it indicated that properties throughout the county were underappraised . . ." Final Decision and Order at 3.

The administrative judge finds that the taxpayers comparable sales cannot provide a basis of valuation absent additional analysis. The administrative judge finds that the comparables include a wide variety of properties, but have not been adjusted. The administrative judge finds that the Assessment Appeals Commission concisely explained the need to adjust comparable sales in E.B. Kissell, Jr. (Shelby County, Tax Years 1991 and 1992) as follows:

The best evidence of the present value of a residential property is generally sales of properties comparable to the subject, comparable in features relevant to value. Perfect comparability is not required, but relevant differences should be explained and accounted for by reasonable adjustments. If evidence of a sale is presented without the required analysis of comparability, it is difficult or impossible for us to use the sale as an indicator of value. . . .

Final Decision and Order at 2.

The administrative judge finds that the procedure normally utilized in the sales comparison approach has been summarized in one authoritative text as follows:

To apply the sales comparison approach, an appraiser follows a systematic procedure.

1. Research the competitive market for information on sales transactions, listings, and offers to purchase or sell involving properties that are similar to the subject property in terms of characteristics such as property type, date of sale, size, physical condition, location, and land use constraints. The goal is to find a set of comparable sales as similar as possible to the subject property.
2. Verify the information by confirming that the data obtained is factually accurate and that the transactions reflect arm's-length, market considerations. Verification may elicit additional information about the market.
3. Select relevant units of comparison (e.g., price per acre, price per square foot, price per front foot) and develop a comparative analysis for each unit. The goal here is to define and identify a unit of comparison that explains market behavior.
4. Look for differences between the comparable sale properties and the subject property using the elements of comparison. Then adjust the price of each sale property to reflect how it differs from the subject property or eliminate that property as a comparable. This step typically involves using the most comparable sale properties and then adjusting for any remaining differences.
5. Reconcile the various value indications produced from the analysis of comparables into a single value indication or a range of values.

Appraisal Institute, The Appraisal of Real Estate at 422 (12th ed. 2001).

The administrative judge finds that the taxpayers introduced insufficient evidence to establish that redeveloping subject property constitutes the highest and best use. The administrative judge finds the fact a limited number of dwellings have been razed in nearby developments does not establish that a prospective buyer of subject property would purchase it for that purpose.

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that the following value and assessment be adopted for tax year 2005:

LAND VALUE	IMPROVEMENT VALUE	TOTAL VALUE	ASSESSMENT
$604,900	$110,100	$715,000	$178,750

It is FURTHER ORDERED that any applicable hearing costs be assessed pursuant to Tenn. Code Ann. § 67-5-1501(d) and State Board of Equalization Rule 0600-1-.17.
